Rear Fenders & Brackets

As Front Fenders & Braces are generic to all Model A's they are still in there own Section - See Page Gen. 199 & 200 For Front Fenders

Open and Closed Cab Rear Fenders Please read carefully before purchase.

Fiberglass Fenders - A complete line of fiberglass fenders are available. These are all hand laminated with fiberglass matte and special resins to achieve the optimum in strength.

Please Note: Additional shipping will apply due to large boxes. These are special orders, please allow three to four weeks for delivery. Rear fenders will be shipped by courier and are charged according to the box size.

Steel Fenders - It is important when fitting sheet metal to your car to FIRST fit before painting or drilling any holes. Many times it is necessary to use C-Clamps, vise grips or a drift pin to locate holes for alignment. In order to secure a proper fit and alignment, it is normally necessary to loosen all attaching sheet metal parts. Some reworking may be necessary as mating parts many come from different suppliers or new parts versus 80 year old parts are placed together. Some metal parts may have been treated with oil or may still have residue from forming oils. It is necessary to thoroughly clean the metal with a metal prep or solution to remove all oils and / or fingerprints before painting.

NO RE-WORKED, RUSTED OR PAINTED FENDERS ARE ACCEPTABLE FOR RETURN.

If your dowel pins start bending DO NOT go any further with this tool. These dowels are made from a hardened steel but NOT case hardened. I suggest trying penetrating oil, but if that doesn't work, then take a fine drill bit and try drilling at least halfway through the pin. Then use the removing tool.

Mike's Tips *****

The Model A outside handles have a square shaft with a section machined square with opposite corners near the end. The handle must be pulled out, then rotated 45 degrees so the corners line up, then pulled and back again. Kind of pull-twist-pull-twist-pull. Reverse applies to installation. It was an early theft prevention idea since the passenger side locking handles just lock themselves rather than the latch assembly. The driver's side doors lock from within.

Speedometer Calibration by Wiley Higgins

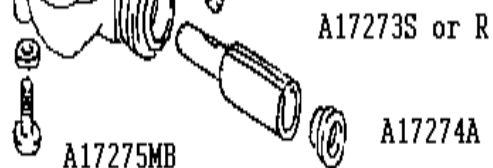

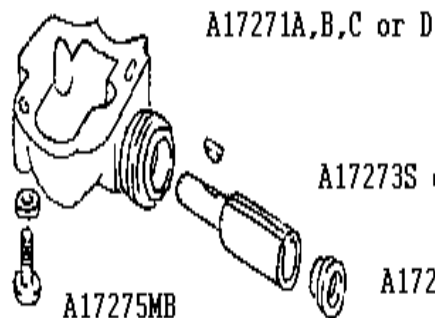

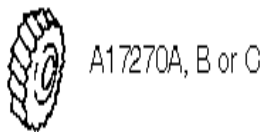

While driving a Model A, the optimum driving speed is a steady 45 MPH. This speed moves you along at a good pace and helps keep you out of the way of most traffic, while not putting too much strain on your engine. If your Model A won't hold a steady 45 M.p.h., something needs to be corrected.

First of all, a Model A Speedometer usually is not accurate after over 60 years of use, even it has been rebuilt by a professional. Also, tire size and rear-end ratio have an effect. So, your speedometer may indicate a different speed than you are actually travelling down the road - either faster or slower.

The best method of determining the actual speed you are travelling is to conduct a time/distance check. Here's how:

1. Select a reasonably straight and level stretch of highway.
2. Use your digital or sweep second hand watch as a stop watch.
3. As you pass any mile post (remember, straight and level is best), start the stop watch or note the seconds on the sweep second hand.
4. Hold the same, steady speed for one mile to the next mile post, and note how many seconds have elapsed.
5. Consult the chart below to determine your true speed over the ground.
6. Repeat steps 1. through 5. above two or three times and get an average.
7. Adjust your speed over the ground slower or faster if you have a speedometer error to hold a steady 45 M.p.h.. For example, it takes 80 seconds to go 1 mile if your true ground speed is 45 M.p.h..

As in many areas of Commercial Vehicles, so many of the facts are clouded and information is limited - particularly this Australian Version. The 1931 UTES (Utility Vehicles) were built at the Ford Plant in Geelong, Australia. Complete chassis were imported from Canada obviously RHD, Hoods, Radiators, Grill and Headlights were installed at the Geelong Plant and then sent to Ford Authorized body builders in each state. The manufacturing of these beds was conducted under the close supervision of Ford Engineers. Pictures confirm that the 1929 model called a "Sample Truck No. 301" did have the chrome bars on the top edge of the bed, yet the '30 and '31 models did not. The bars were also on the Hard Top 66A Deluxe Pick-Up.
